

Overall commentary on proposal:

This proposal has plenty of potential but would benefit from a tighter focus. This would allow the learner to go into greater depth and help them avoid an overly narrative approach which would not access the higher levels of the assessment objectives. There is some good detail on the research method and why the named method was chosen over any others, but the sources listed are not necessarily of the academic standard required. In addition, many of the sources are not fully referenced to allow them to be scrutinised. On a practical point, a project of this breadth may be difficult for a learner, making completion less likely. It is always preferable to have everything in place so the learner has the best chance of achieving success.
