Kerala: College student hospitalised after ragging by seniors, police files case against five in Idukki

Last month, around 100 students of a leading medical college in Uttar Pradesh were subjected to "inhuman treatment" in the name of ragging, prompting the National Human Rights Commission to issue notices to the HRD Ministry.

The survey was posted on my instagram story and was also sent privately to my friends, so that more and more people could answer it. 106 answered my survey, 75 females and 31 males. A good generalisability could be seen here, however the results would be more inclined towards the responses given by females. Also, the survey may be culturally biased as only Indian students answered the questions. Bullying situation in India might differ from the bullying situation in the UK, so the results may not be completely applicable over there.

3 days ago	It Hurts
3 days ago	False complaints were made againt me and the worst part was that teachers believed in it. My own classmates would shout and abuse me during duty (I was a council memeber) for no reason and let me mention that when this happened a teacher was there in the scene and did nothing!
3 days ago	Students making fun of my complexion and teasing me and if still i dont break down then hurting me physically.
3 days ago	I can't describe that horrible feeling my seniors and classmates bullied me and at a point some spot was lonely deep inside my heart because of bullying. This should stop
3 days ago	It's unexplainable...
3 days ago	it was horrible and i was helpless. it disturbed my mental health. i was alone. i was always low. but i survived on my own.♥
3 days ago	I've felt miserable and hurt especially when even the teachers or the coordinator have never really done anything or helped to make it stop.
3 days ago	It had been subtle so i can't justify it's significance because it was generally on the back than on the face regarding the femininity i have
3 days ago	I felt very insecure when I was bullied. I didn't feel safe in my class. I was always been laughed at and it was extremely disturbing.
